NOTEWORTHY among the scores of spectacular settings embodied in the Theda Bara super-production, "Salome," is said to be an exact duplicate of the famous Jaffa Gate through which General Allenby and the British forces marched recently into Jerusalem. Beyond the gate are the ancient buildings and streets leading up to the palace of King Herod, the central tower of which rises more than 200 feet.

On either side of the tower are wings 200 feet long, making the building itself 400 feet in length. Stretching away in the distance from the Gate beneath which the Savior passed two thousand years ago, are the houses of the city. J. Gordon Edwards filmed "Salome" for William Fox.

O. Henry on Nelson Program.

"Lost on Dress Parade," a charming O. Henry story; "The Life That Failed," a comedy and an episode of the "Daughter of Uncle Sam" series make up a splendid program at the Nelson today.

Triangle Girls Next Week.

Danny Lund's Triangle Girls come to the Hippodrome for a week's engagement beginning with next Monday matinee. Mr. Lund, himself, as with the show and is playing the chief comedy part. As a fun maker he has few equals, either as a black face or the various other character impersonations popular with comedians and the vast army of theatre patrons. During the week the company will offer three tabloid musical comedies. The opening selection is "My Wife's Husbands," a delightful skit with all sorts of humorous complications. For Wednesday and Thursday "The King of Hereafter" is scheduled. This play was presented here by Mr. Lund on a previous visit and proved the banner bill of the company's repertoire at that time. Since its former presentation many new situations have been injected into the piece and a set of elaborate scenery has been especially designed for it. The final bill of the week will be given its initial production at the Friday matinee. It bears the title of "At the Races." Associated with Mr. Lund this season are Phemie Lockhart, Bob Shinn, Ella Forth, Jack Kineard, Charles Martin and Mrs. Lund. A beauty chorus that upholds its title is one of the features of each program.

Pauline Stark in Dixie Feature.

The plot of "Innocent's Progress" which is showing at the Dixie, is rather frail. It belongs to the Cinderella variety and though its story is simple, it has everywhere met with great success for it was splendidly acted and directed. The story concerns the development of Tessa Fayne, who, rebelling against the narrow environment of the little village where she is the drudge of an exacting aunt, comes to New York. She had hoped to become an actress, but failing in this is disheartened. She meets Garvey Larned, a young millionaire, who befriends her.

He goes West to recover his health and leaves Tessa in the care of Madeline Carson, a girl who had long loved him.

Several years pass and when Madeline is killed in an automobile accident, Larned returns to see Tessa. He is amazed to find her grown into a refined and cultured girl. The two fall in love and the picture ends with Tessa's future assured.

As the early scenes in the picture showed Tessa's life in a village, there were some splendidly selected types to represent the small-town gossips. Alice Knowland made a particular good aunt.

Little Miss Pauline Stark is a human, lovable Tessa, and Jack Lovington is seen to advantage as Larned. Lillian West weeps copiously as Madeline and in general gives a pleasing performance.

"CLOSE-UPS"

Douglas Fleming and his wife arrived in town early yesterday morning, having closed their engagement with Newman's Moulin Rouge for the present season. The couple will spend their vacation in this city as the guests of Mr. Fleming's parents.

Manager Fisher yesterday received by wire Lewis Hershey's acceptance of the offer to join the Fisher and Fleming Minstrels for the summer season. This is a mighty good act and should prove a headliner with the show.

Doug Fleming had hardly finished by wire Lewis Hershey's acceptance of the offer to join the Fisher and Fleming Minstrels for the summer season. Doug is thinking it over. Should he decide to join the show he will be made stage director and given full charge of the producing end. Doug's experience on the "big time" would make him a valuable acquisition, both as a performer and director.

Roof's "Some Pretty Babies" wind up the week's engagement at the Hippodrome tonight.

"The Claim," with Edith Storey in the principal role repeats at the Princess today.

NORMAL STUDENTS PLANT IVY SPRIGS

Pretty Ceremony on the Steps Leading to the Building.

Pretty and unique ceremonies were conducted yesterday by the Senior class of the Fairmont State Normal school in connection with planting of ivy around the stone wall and steps leading to the entrance of the building.

The entire student body and faculty gathered on the steps of the building at one o'clock immediately following the assembling of the gathering. The Senior class numbering 83 marched down the steps where the ceremonies were conducted.

The class sang "Fairmont: We Greet You" which is the school song following which an appropriate poem was read by Miss Katherine Johnson. An ivy song was then sung following which Miss Mae Hawkins gave an oration appropriate to the occasion.

The class then formed into lines and marched to the stone wall where each member planted a sprig of ivy.

The Normal campus is rapidly rounding into shape a nice sod is taking root and the campus will soon present an attractive appearance. Gardening is also being done on an extensive scale to the rear of the building.
